

Sina Amedson

2009 -- Stand-Up Comedian: Sketch Night.

Sina Amedson spent his developmental years split between Orange County, Seattle and eventually Salt Lake City. While taking pre-medicine classes in college Sina would take acting classes as his electives. After his sophomore year he walked away from the pre-med program to be a full time actor. Sina began studying improvisational comedy at the internationally recognized comedy troupe ComedySportz at age 19 and then began his career as a stand up comedian at age 21 where he has won numerous awards for his performances.

Sina's career quickly took off after starring in a film with Fred Willard, Clint Howard, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Jr. Andrew Wilson and Gary Coleman (Church Ball 2006) and then the following year with Meryl Streep, Aiden Quinn and Erick Averi (Dark Matter 2007 Official Sundance Selection – Alfred Sloan Award Winner). After numerous film and television appearances Sina now studies with the world famous Groundlings comedy troupe in Hollywood as well as the Upright Citizen's Brigade Theater and Improv Olympic comedy troupes. He is a regular performer at comedy clubs all over the country including the Hollywood Improv and the World Famous Laugh Factory in Hollywood. Sina now resides in Los Angeles, California.
